Traders hit out at lack of sparkle

RETAILERS in Newmarket have hit out at the lack of Christmas lights in the town this year.

One retailer claimed lights along the High Street were "pathetic".

At a meeting on Monday, town councillors said that decorations could not be put up this year due to recent public safety concerns, and that an investigation was under way.

They said that the situation was "regrettable", but next year's lights would be "better than ever".

Manager of Hartwell Blind, Sarah Rushdon, told the News: "It's not a very good invitation [to shoppers]. We're the only town in the UK without Christmas lights. We're the racing capital of the world but we haven't got Christmas lights. It's pathetic really."

"Why didn't they [the town

SAMAR MAGUIRE
SamarMaguireCN council] notice earlier? The town looks drab."

A company contracted by the town council to put the lights up found that anchor points along the High Street were unsafe, making it not possible to put up lights or banners.

Di Robertshaw, chairwoman of the Newmarket Retailers' Association, said: "The retailers association donated money towards the Christmas tree and the lights. But it's disappointing. We're trying to encourage people into the town for Christmas."

"If it's for health and safety reasons there's not a lot we can do about it."

"But I hope people don't come to Newmarket for the decorations, and we have free parking on Thursday afternoons so I'm hoping we still attract people."

At the leisure services committee meeting on Monday, Cllr Janet Clarke voiced residents' concerns over the display.

Cllr Rachel Hood said: "It has transpired that there are health and safety reasons that we have been made aware of. An investigation is being carried out."

Cllr Mick Jefferys added: "It's a very regrettable situation. I would hope that we can reassure the people of Newmarket that the Christmas lights will be better than ever [next year]."

Robert Nobbs, of the Newmarket BID, said: "Considerable effort has been put in with the help and support of the town council."

"Many hours have been put into Christmas this year and I think it should be supported."

LIT UP: Liam Collis has raised more than £700 by covering his home with Christmas lights

Teen lights up home for fund

A NEWMARKET teenager covered his home with Christmas lights to raise money for a cancer charity last week.

Liam Collis, 17, held a switch-on event at Brickfields Avenue on Thursday and raised more than £700 for Macmillan Cancer Support.

Liam started the annual fundraiser after his father and grandfather lost their battles with cancer.

He told the News: "I wanted to do this Christmas lights display to raise as much money as possible."

"I started doing it last year because seven years ago, I lost my dad to cancer, and I lost my grandad to cancer last year."

"So I've decided to raise money for Macmillan because it's really close to our heart and incredibly important after the help they gave to my dad and granddad."

Liam invited residents to the switch-on event. He bought food and drinks for his guests, including mulled wine, squash, sausage rolls, minced pies and cupcakes.

Liam's mother Mandy, 43, said: "I'm really proud of him. It's brilliant, very good."

"He's had so much support, it's unbelievable – from friends and family."

"It's a really important charity as well, because we've lost two people in our lives."

She added: "It was really difficult for us, and Liam shut himself away. But he just came up with a brain wave one day and set up the lights.

"It's like a winter wonderland at our house. I didn't mind at all really. He's worked so hard."

A Macmillan Cancer Support spokesperson said: "We are so grateful to Liam for supporting Macmillan with this fantastic event."

"It is such a great idea and Liam has obviously worked really hard to put on the event and invite everyone along to join in the Christmas spirit."

"By putting on this event and raising money for Macmillan, Liam and everyone who joins him will help us support more people affected by cancer so they don't have to face the journey alone."

MP to host crossing site meeting

TOWN MP Matthew Hancock will meet with Network Rail representatives and the town council at a crossing in Newmarket next week to discuss its possible closure.

The meeting will take place on Friday, December 16, at 9am.

This comes after the route managing director of Network Rail, Richard Schofield, sent a letter to Mr Hancock about closing the Weatherby crossing.

A petition against the plans, started by residents, has now attracted more than 200 signatures.

David Bagnall, who started the petition, said he would be handing it over in person to representatives from Network Rail.

CRIME

Police operation targets drivers

A TOTAL of 65 vehicles were stopped in Newmarket in a one-day operation last month to tackle criminals using Suffolk's roads.

Five people were arrested including a 35-year-old man from Newmarket for drug driving.

Suffolk police carried out the multi-agency operation on Wednesday, November 23, at the George Lambton Playing Fields on the A142.

The aim was to tackle foreign national offenders who use Suffolk road networks and to disrupt activities of criminals who try to commit offences within the region.

During the operation, five cars with defects were taken off the road and 36 advisory notices were issued.

Seven vehicles were seized because the drivers had no insurance or the correct licence.

Three individuals will be investigated by DWP for falsely claiming benefits.

SAMAR MAGUIRE
SamarMaguireCN

There were also reports made for 32 traffic offences.

Sgt Julian Ditcham, who oversaw the operation, said: "We will continue to carry out days of action to disrupt criminal activity in the county."

"This operation has shown that these intensive partnership days have real benefit, taking dangerous vehicles off the road and preventing and detecting offences."

The police were joined by the joint Suffolk and Norfolk Roads Policing and Firearms Operations Unit, who teamed up with the dog section to work with partners including the Driver and Vehicle Standards Agency (DVSA), the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP), Suffolk County Council and the Gangmaster Licensing Authority.

The five arrests, bar the man from Newmarket, included:

■ A 21-year-old man from Ely was reported for driving without insurance, an MoT, the correct driving licence and for not wearing a seat belt.

■ A 46-year-old man from Cambridge was arrested for drug driving and bailed to return to Bury St Edmunds Police on January 12.

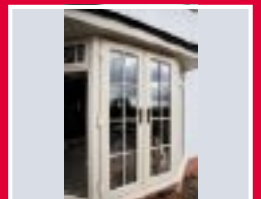

■ A 24-year-old man from Cambridge was arrested for drug driving and bailed to return to Bury St Edmunds Police on January 7.

■ A 22-year-old man from Peterborough was arrested for drug driving and bailed to return to Bury St Edmunds Police on January 12.

Crossing plans a smokescreen

FURTHER to a piece in the News last week, I can confirm – again – that Weatherby's foot-crossing has never been deemed a public right-of-way.

It is a former private 'occupation crossing' demoted to just a footpath crossing in 1969. (The size was reduced, from a road level-crossing to a pedestrian one).

The county council could, I understand, have once mapped the path as a public right-of-way, under the '20 year rule' and recorded it on the definitive map, but have never done so.

Very recent legislation, instigated by the Government, has attempted to make this action all but impossible on level-crossings – the various consultations and reports on level crossings undertaken by the Law Commission (Consultation Report No. 194, 2010 and Report No. 339, 2013) make fascinating reading. Suffolk County Council was one of the parties involved at the consultation phase.

A draft Level Crossings Bill was included in the final report, but would appear to have been kicked into the long grass, what with the EU vote fiasco, etc. So any crossing which Network Rail wish to close will have to be attempted under the 'old law' of the Transport and Works Act 1992.

Most interestingly, and possibly of great interest to any group mounting a legal challenge to Network Rail over the closure (and anything less is, I'm afraid, utterly pointless in the real world), is that the Law Commission themselves state, in Consultation Report No. 194, that the T&W Act 1992 is, in their opinion, aimed at enabling large-scale development works only and is not, repeat not, designed for use against a single level crossing. They further state that they can find no example of this having previously been done. Also, under Section 48 of the T&W Act, the Secretary of State can require the operator to provide a new tunnel or bridge, if closure of a crossing will place the public in risk of danger.

All this has been part of a concerted effort by the Government to reduce spending on the railway – in this case to save maintenance costs on crossings by altering the laws protecting them and shifting the emphasis from land-ownership and rights, under the old crossings Acts and shunting them under Health and Safety At Work legislation – hence the recent plethora of claims citing previously unmentioned (over 150 years) 'unsafe level crossings'! This is simply how Government works – changing the law to enable its own ends.

The railways now absorb something like eight times the grant of public money than the old British Rail did – according to the Scottish Government, 63% of track access charging income comes from the Network Grant (i.e. public money) and only 27% from the private train operators, some of whom also receive public subsidies!

An interesting fact to end with: The Eleventh Report of the Transport Committee – Safety at Level Crossings, published by the Government in 2014, gives a graph showing the number of fatalities at level-crossings throughout Europe. The UK is the second safest in the whole of Europe in this respect – only tiny Luxembourg is safer. (The worst is Greece). The whole level-crossing closure programme is nothing but a smokescreen for fiddling the economic books.

■ Cambridgeshire County Council will be presenting its official response to Network Rail's proposals to close foot-crossings during its Highways and Community Infrastructure Committee today.

As Newmarket is surrounded by Cambridgeshire and Weatherby's foot-crossing leads directly into Woodditton, Cambridgeshire CC has a view on the proposed closure, which is to place it under a 'holding objection' at present, stating, 'CCC would support the ongoing negotiations to resolve the matter and enable continued access for users.' Objections have been lodged for most of the proposed foot-crossing closures in nearby Fordham, Soham and Ely, due to poor alternatives being offered. Those without objection appear to be generally very remote crossings way out in the Fens.

Officers to carry out more road checks

SUFFOLK Police will be carrying out extra patrols and roadside checks this Christmas.

The month-long operation is aimed at drivers who are under the influence of drink or drugs.

Any driver who is stopped due to concerns over the manner of their driving, a vehicle defect or is involved in a collision will be breathalysed.

Chief Inspector Kris Barnard, head of the joint roads policing and firearms operations unit, said: "Drink-driving has become socially unacceptable and that's why we will often receive phone calls from members of the public reporting suspected drink-drivers.

"We will always act on any information given to us and please don't think the rural nature of the counties affords you any protection because it doesn't."

"Anyone caught faces a minimum of a 12-18 month ban."

The campaign will run until Sunday, January 1.

Tough cat Fats has a soft spot

SAMAR MAGUIRE
SamarMaguireCN

ONE-EARED Fats is the kind of cat you don't mess around with.

He takes on dogs, no matter what breed. He's streetwise and above all, he is a survivor.

But he has a softer side to his nature too and just loves to bring home "presents" for his owner.

Fats steals bed sheets, T-shirts, shoes, jumpers and towels from neighbours' homes and piles them up back at his adopted home.

His owner, who is too embarrassed to be named, but lives near the George Lambton estate in Newmarket, said: "He gives me presents. And he makes this really weird noise, like 'look what I've got for you!'"

The clothes are washed and ironed and put in a pile for collection.

His owner said: "I don't do computers, so I tell my neighbours by word of mouth.

"One time after about six months, I had such a pile I had to start getting rid of them."

The tale of Fats follows the story of feline felon Paddy, the modern day Newmarket cat burglar.

His purr-fect crimes, reported in the News on November 23, included stealing: 25 flowerpots, dog bone soft toys, a toy banana, an orchid with its pot, three pegs, a Manchester United football, a box of assorted screws, a KFC burger box and sandwich boxes.

Fats was adopted from welfare charity Cats Protection four years ago.

His owner said: "I called Cats Protection and they laughed. I said I'm going to get in trouble, but I've told everyone if anything is missing."

"He's a bit of a street wise cat. He's a survivor," said his owner. "He attacks all the dogs around here. It doesn't matter what type it is, he'll go for them."

More recently, Fats brought home someone's kitten.

His owner said: "One day he brought me a kitten. That was weird. It now lives with me. It used to belong to a European lady but she was fine with it. Cats Protection told me that a cat will pick where it wants to live."

Historic year for sales as Tattersalls breaks record

THE 250th Tattersalls Mare Sale 2016 broke another record for the third year in a row last week.

The four-day sale saw a record turnover totalling 265 million guineas.

The highest selling mare was Hazariya, which sold for a total of two million guineas. Tattersalls breeding stock turnover was 44,709,200 guineas, an average of 65,652 guineas and a median of 27,000 guineas.

Tattersalls chairman Edmond Mahony said: "2016 has been an historic year for Tattersalls. It is 250 years since Richard Tattersall founded the world's first company of bloodstock auctioneers and we are proud custodians of that legacy. We are equally proud that the company has marked this special year with record annual turnover in excess of 265 million guineas and that the Tattersalls December Sale has reinforced its reputation as probably the most international bloodstock sale in the world.

"It has been a privilege to have welcomed buyers this week from every continent in the world and they have all contributed to a uniquely diverse sale which has brought our anniversary year to a successful conclusion.

"Eight of the top 10 highest priced foals in Britain and Ireland, 76 foals selling for 100,000 guineas or more and a further 110 breaking the six figure mark this week, are all clear indicators of a market in which quality has been well rewarded.

"Although we can reflect on a successful and historic year, we are also mindful that there are sectors of the market which are facing major challenges. This time last year we reflected on the significant rise in the number of horses catalogued and offered at Tattersalls and the inevitable impact at the lower end of the market. This year we have endeavoured to manage the numbers in both the October Yearling Sale and the December Foal Sale more carefully, and clearance rates held up remarkably well, but this only masks the reality that demand in the lower tiers of the market is well below the level of supply.

"This is an issue we must all face together, but in the meantime we would like to extend our sincere gratitude to each and every purchaser and vendor, all of whom have played a part in a memorable 250th year of selling thoroughbreds at Tattersalls."

The next sale at Tattersalls is the February Sale which takes place from February 2 - 3. Entries are now being taken.

COUNTY

Film service launches to put Suffolk on the map

SUFFOLK'S new county-wide film service has been launched.

Screen Suffolk aims to make the county the most film friendly in England by attracting renowned producers.

The move is expected to create more jobs and opportunity in the county.

Screen Suffolk director Karen Everett said: "Last year £102 million was spent on film and TV production in the English regions, during 9,000 film days, as UK film continues to boom."

"Screen Suffolk is dedicated to ensuring Suffolk sees its fair share of this revenue and opportunity."

"We are committed to attracting 100 days of filming into the county in our first year and quadrupling this by 2020."

"We invited [to our launch in London to] 100 key producers, location managers and specialist film journalists, to introduce them to the benefits of filming in Suffolk."

Clr Jennie Jenkins, chair of the Suffolk Public Sector Leaders Group, said: "We see the best our county has to offer every single day and we're looking forward to sharing Suffolk with the world on both the big and small screens. But more than that, we know exactly how much talent and drive there is here and making that available to the world of film will bring more jobs and more opportunities to the people of Suffolk, as well as unleashing their creative potential on the world of film making."

EDUCATION

County's schools among weakest in England

SUFFOLK is one of the weakest performing local authorities in the East of England in terms of education and skills, a report has found.

The annual report from Ofsted, released on Thursday, December 1, reveals that only 71 per cent of Suffolk secondary school students are in good or outstanding schools, compared to 81 per cent across England. This is a rise of one percentage point from last year in the county.

In the East of England, only Cambridgeshire performed worse, with 63 per cent of students in good or outstanding schools.

In primary schools, 84 per cent of Suffolk's students are in good or outstanding schools, compared to 90 per cent nationally. This is a rise of nine percentage points from Suffolk last year.

The county was also the local authority area with the lowest proportion of students taking the new EBacc qualification. Just 30.2 per cent of students were entered for it and 17.9 per cent gained the qualification.

Howard Lay, chief executive of the Samuel Ward Academy Trust, which includes Newmarket Academy, said the report showed Suffolk schools were making progress.

He said: "Primary inspections are now very strong and although secondary schools would appear to not be doing quite as well in their inspections, this is partly because of a time-lag between outcomes, which are now far better, and inspections that follow."

"The key challenge for Suffolk is to now address the apparent lower number of students entering for EBacc subjects than nationally. This is an area that the Samuel Ward Academy Trust has been strongly encouraging."

The county council's cabinet member for education, Gordon Jones, said: "It is important to note that the figures from this report are up to date as of the end of August this year. Suffolk has seen a huge improvement in its Ofsted ratings in recent months and the current percentage of schools which are rated 'good' or 'outstanding' in the county is now 87% compared with the national figure which is 89%."

"It is acknowledged that Suffolk's figure is still below the national average. However I am pleased to see that our Ofsted ratings are continuing to improve at a faster rate than nationally. The percentage of schools rated 'good' or better in Suffolk has increased by 11% in the last year, compared with the national figure which has increased by 5%."

Chef 'still buzzing' after kitchen battle

NEWMARKET chef Jamie Mountford says appearing on the BBC's MasterChef: The Professionals has given him a massive confidence boost.

Jamie, 30, who was eliminated from the show after the 'skills test' last week despite impressing the judges, said he was still buzzing.

The senior sous chef at the Bedford Lodge Hotel & Spa said the show had been "the highlight of his career".

He said the name of his signature dish, Chicken Kiev, let him down in the skills test where chefs cook in front of judges Marcus Wareing, Monica Galetti and Gregg Wallace.

"I was the only one who did really well on it," said Jamie. "I had some good feedback from the judges, but when it came back to the signature dish, the name of it let me down."

"If I had named the dish differently, I could have gone through."

Jamie, who lives with his fiancée Melissa and son Noah, 1, was one of three contestants eliminated but believes his dad, who died in February, would have been proud.

SAMAR MAGUIRE

SamarMaguireCN

He said: "I'm buzzing. [The show] was a massive confidence boost for me. The highlight of my career. And I've learnt a lot about myself."

"[Applying to the show was] everything to do with my dad. When you lose a loved one you can get really lost in life, you don't know which way to go and you're on your own. So I just thought let's give this a go and make the guy proud."

"I'd applied two years ago and didn't get through. My dad died in February so I applied again and got it."

"I'm cheesed off that he wasn't able to see it, but I'm sure I made him proud."

Jamie said he would like a female to win the TV series in the hope that they inspire more young girls to become chefs.

He said: "I hope that one of the girls wins this year, because I think they've done really well considering it's a really man-dominated industry. They don't usually have ego and they just go with the flow really."

"It's a very confrontational industry. You get criticism from every angle. From GPs, customers, fellow chefs, and you've got to be really strong to run the kitchen because people can walk all over you and make you take the blame for things."

"There's also a massive shortage of chefs because there's not enough wages for the work that you do."

"But it's also a very exciting industry because you get a lot of praise as well – and people love food."

Masterchef: The Professionals is a reality show for young chefs in the industry "who want to make it to the top of the culinary world." It is aired on BBC Two, Tuesdays to Thursdays, at 8pm.

CAREER HIGHLIGHT: Newmarket chef Jamie Mountford would like a female chef to win the TV series Masterchef: The Professionals now that he has been eliminated

CHOCOLATEER: Cheryl Brighty is dishing out offers in her free online advent calendar

Chocolate shop launches free online advent calendar

AN ONLINE advent calendar has been launched by a Newmarket chocolate shop.

The items on offer include free hot chocolate, special offers on chocolate, recipes and 'thoughts of the day'. And you can sign up for free.

Cheryl Brighty, owner of Artistry in Cocoa on Sun Lane, told the News: "We've been making chocolates for over 12 years now, and we are artisan chocolateers. We specialise in bespoke - so we make our own moulds and chocolate sculptures, things like a life-sized working roulette wheel. Really random things.

"I'm doing a 25-day email calendar, people can sign up for free and get a surprise at 7am in their inbox.

"We only send one email per day, so you won't have to worry about spam. But there will be some exciting things."

To sign up, visit the Artistry in Cocoa Facebook page. The calendar ends on Sunday, December 25.

Shoppers warned of exploding gifts

SHOPPERS are being warned about exploding hoverboards and other unsafe electrical presents in the run-up to the festive season.

Suffolk Trading Standards has launched a Christmas campaign putting out wanted posters of a 'Rogue Elf' who has been selling faulty electrical items.

The aim is to make people aware of the dangers of these items, which kill 70 people in the UK each year and injure 350,000.

They are particularly concerned about hoverboards, which can explode or cause a fire if they don't have a fuse fitted in the plug.

Customers are being warned to check for a fuse and never to leave a board charging overnight, as well as checking for warning signs, such as poor spelling on packaging.

Other products, particularly those sold online, could be cheap copies or imitations of well-known brands.

Suffolk Trading Standards is advising people to check the seller's full name and address and do a price check against products on the High Street.

You can check if the item has a three-pin UK plug and a voltage of 230V, 50Hz, and check online reviews of the seller.

Call Suffolk Trading Standards on 03454 040506 if you believe an item is unsafe, and stop using it immediately.

Book launch raises cash for injured jockey

AN award-winning author raised £260 for injured jockey Freddy Tyllick when she launched her latest novel in Newmarket.

Ireland-based Lissa Oliver launched her racing thriller Sainte Bastien at the Hamilton Road Stables last week.

Guests were welcomed by trainer and owner of the stables, Ilka Gansera-Leveque.

Lissa donated half of the proceeds from the launch to Freddy's fund.

Lissa said: "It was such a lovely day and a very special atmosphere. Everyone enjoyed seeing the horses and getting a sense of atmosphere, which I hope they'll relive when reading the book."

"Best of all we raised a nice amount for Freddy and I can't say enough in praise of Ilka and her team who made the day so special."

The launch was presented by turf historian Michael Tanner. He described Lissa as an "honest writer, who portrayed the racing world as it is."

The guests were also invited to view the stables and meet the racehorses.

Film makers invited to new course

BUDDING film makers in Suffolk are being invited to apply for a course run by the British Film Institute.

The course aims to give young people in Suffolk and Norfolk practical experiences in film making, with help from industry professionals.

Screen Suffolk director Karen Everett said: "There's nothing like hands-on experience and access to the help of film professionals."

"This business can be quite difficult to break into, so any course such as this that helps with a leg up is a great idea for young people."

You have to be between the age of 16 to 19 to apply at a charge of £25.

There will be four full-day masterclasses with industry professionals on January 7, 21, 28 and February 4.

On February 13 to 16, students will be given a budget of £150 to make a film.

The event will be held at the John Hurt centre in Norwich.

You need to apply by January 3, by calling (01603) 760529, or visit cultureworkseast.co.uk/filmacademy

CAMPAIGN

Artist uses 'graffilthy' art to help find Corrie

SAMAR MAGUIRE

AN artist has used his dirty van in support of the Find Corrie campaign.

Rick Minns, 42, known as Ruddy Muddy, drew missing RAF serviceman Corrie McKeague on the back of his van and included contact details for anyone who may have information on his whereabouts.

Corrie's mother Nicola Urquhart said the artwork was "amazing" and hoped it would raise awareness of her son, who has been missing since September.

In another move this week, Corrie's grandparents offered a five-figure reward to help find him.

Mr Minns, based in Norfolk, told the News: "[The idea] was initially suggested to me on Facebook. The mum [of Corrie] was up for it so I jumped at the chance to help.

"People are saying it definitely looks like him, so I'm happy.

"I'm driving around with it on the back of my van, and I'll be keeping it there for a few weeks.

"Anything that can make a few more people aware – if it's seen by someone and leads to more information that would be great."

Corrie, 23, has been missing since 3.25am on September 24 after a night out in Bury St Edmunds.

His phone was traced to Barton Mills but has not been found.

Nicola said about the artwork, "It really is a fantastic likeness, I really can't believe he has done that on a back of a van.

"It's so unusual. I've never seen anything like it before. I think it will get people talking."

Corrie's grandparents Mary and Oliver McKeague this week offered a five-figure reward for Corrie.

Mary said: "We've pledged this reward in the hope that it will motivate someone to come forward to help."

There are now only 10 unidentified people who were caught on CCTV in Bury St Edmunds near the time of Corrie's disappearance.

ARTWORK: The drawing on the back of the van to help find Corrie McKeague, pictured above Suffolk police set up a 'police pod' in Bury St Edmunds town centre on November 24 and 25 for people to watch the footage.

Thirteen out of 23 people were identified as a result of the efforts.

Pupils enter recycling competition

PUPILS at Kennett Primary School are taking part in a competition to design a 'recycling champion'.

East Cambridgeshire District Council has launched a campaign 'Be Like Michael, Recycle' which encourages primary school pupils to draw or paint a hero, called Michael.

The winning child will receive £50 and £200 for their school.

Cllr Julia Huffer said:

"Michael's job will be to demonstrate how to recycle, what you can recycle and bring to life the concept of reusing waste and acting like a responsible citizen."

The winning design will be selected in January.

CARE

'Good' rating for care home

A MILDENHALL care home has been rated 'good' after an inspection last month.

Mabbs Hall Care Home had an inspection on November 8 and has been rated by the Quality Care Commission as 'good' for being safe, effective, caring, responsive and well-led.

Sheela Varughese, the manager, told the News: "We are pleased with the report. I think they have considered the rating fairly. All areas were looked into and inspectors were very experienced people in the industry, so that helped."

"We were expecting a good rating, to be honest. All credit goes to the staff

SAMAR MAGUIRE
SamarMaguireCN

team at Mabbs Hall Care Home."

A total of 29 people live at the care home.

It provides support with personal care and nursing care for older people, some of whom live with dementia.

The report said: "People received care that met their needs from staff who knew them well. Staff were attentive and kind and worked in a respectful way that promoted people's dignity."

It added that people had care plans in place that gave clear guidance to staff, and were reviewed regularly – which included people's likes and dislikes, preferences, spiritual needs and a 'this is me' document.

There was also an 'All about me' folder so staff could 'easily talk about things'.

People's medicines were also managed safely and any individual risks to their welfare were assessed.

Staff also knew how to recognise and report any concerns of abuse.

People at the care home also had a range of healthy foods and health was monitored appropriately.

ACCIDENT

Motorcyclist injured in car collision

A MOTORCYCLIST was injured and taken to hospital last week after being involved in a collision with a car in Mildenhall.

Emergency services were called at about 5.50pm on December 1 to a collision between a motorbike and a car at the junction of West Row Road and Comet Way.

Police, an RAF responder, ambulance crew, a Suffolk Accident Rescue Service care team and ambulance officer were sent to the scene.

The male motorcyclist, said to be in his 20s, was treated for a suspected broken pelvis and taken by land ambulance to Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge.

Police said his injuries were not as bad as first thought.

Herb and Butter Roasted Turkey:

Christmas dinner wouldn't be complete without turkey, so if you try any different recipes this festive season, you are likely to disappoint. Instead, revolutionise a traditional meal by trying out this mouth-watering herb and butter roasted turkey recipe. Taking four hours to cook and half an hour to prepare, this recipe will feed up to 12 people, so tuck in!

Ingredients: 1 lemon, ½ c. butter, ½ shallot, 8 large sage leaves, 2 tbsp. fresh thyme leaves, 1 tbsp. rosemary leaves, 1 clove garlic, 1 fresh whole turkey, 1 medium onion, 2 carrots, 2 celery ribs, Kitchen string, 1 c. dry white wine, 1 c. low-sodium turkey or chicken broth, ¼ c. all-purpose flour

Step 1: Zest and juice roughly 3 tablespoons of lemon into a food processor. Add ½ c. butter, ½ shallot, 8 large sage leaves, 2 tbsp. fresh thyme leaves, 1 tbsp. rosemary leaves and one clove of garlic. Process until herbs are minced and the mixture is smooth. Reserve and chill a quarter cup of herb butter.

Step 2: Heat oven to 425 degrees Fahrenheit and prepare the turkey. Loosen and lift skin from turkey breast and rub 3 tablespoons of herb butter underneath. Sprinkle turkey with salt and freshly ground pepper.

Step 3: Place one onion, two carrots and two celery ribs in frying pan. Place turkey, breast side up, on a lightly greased roasting rack in pan. Tie ends of legs together and tuck wingtips under. Rub body with herb butter and pour 1 c. dry white wine and 1 c. chicken broth into the roasting pan.

Step 4: Bake for 30 minutes at 425 degrees F on the lowest oven rack. Then reduce temperature to 325 degrees F for the next 2 and a half hours. Remove from oven and let stand for 20 minutes.

Step 5: After moving the turkey to a serving platter, melt reserved chilled butter in a saucepan in medium heat. Whisk constantly and cook for up to 2 minutes. Gradually add reserved 2 1/2 cups drippings to saucepan, and bring to a boil, whisking constantly. Reduce heat and simmer until thickened. Your Turkey is ready.

Christmas Jumpers

Christmas jumpers are no longer just for your dad to wear on the dinner table. Over the past few years, there has been an increase in weird and wonderful designs for the whole family. A Christmas jumper may not be a major fashion statement- but when you need to wrap up warm in the winter months, you will definitely make an impression in one of these!

• Driving Home for Christmas

This jumper is a must buy for any cricket fans in your family, as it puts a humorous spin on the classic Christmas song. Like many Christmas jumpers, it is based around a cringe worthy pun- so we guarantee your dad will love it, whether he likes cricket or not! punkcricket.com/mens-c1/driving-home-for-christmas-sweatshirt-p991/

• Elfie Stick

With Christmas jumpers, the awful puns and dad jokes can be worn and embraced by the entire family. This Elfie stick jumper is a perfect example- younger men will certainly love it. asos.com/brave-soul/brave-soul-christmas-jumper-elfie-stick/

• Baa-Hum-Pug

There are plenty of pun heavy Christmas jumpers for women too. One of the most adorable jumpers this festive season is the Baa Hum-Pug design, which is great for animal lovers everywhere- you will certainly get a big smile on your face when you see this on Christmas morning. brandattic.com/fashion-union-bah-humpug-christmas-jumper-black?gclid=COHOvsuVy9ACFRThGwodeGIOBQ

There are countless excellent children's Christmas jumper designs. Instead of going down the usual route and buying a Santa jumper for the young ones, you should treat them to something that stands out. Boys will definitely love this light-up dinosaur jumper, which packs extra bite this festive season. marksandspencer.com/pure-cotton-animal-print-jumper-1-7-years-/p/p22468328?image=SD_04_T88_7097T_F0_X_EC_90&color=NAVY&prevPage=plp&pdirect

• Fab-Yule-Us

When it comes to funny, pun based designs, there aren't many designed for young girls- probably because they'll find them too embarrassing to wear! Luckily, the Fab-Yule-Us design combines a dad joke with a fashionable jumper that they will be desperate to try on. marksandspencer.com/long-sleeve-slogan-jumper-5-14-years-/p/p22469104?mfPartNumber=T887096T&carousel=FUNH_RR

Christmas TV

After Christmas dinner is eaten, the children have got bored of playing with their presents and the grandparents have fallen asleep, it is time for the family to come together to enjoy the best Christmas TV programmes.

• The Great Christmas Bake-Off (BBC One)

The biggest show on British television is airing on the BBC for the last time, before its controversial move to Channel 4 next year. This will also be the last bake-off to star Mary Berry, as well as hosts Mel & Sue, so we predict this will be the biggest TV hit this festive season.

• Doctor Who (BBC One, Christmas Day)

There has been a Christmas special of the hit sci-fi series every year from 2005 onwards- and this year is no different. Here, The Doctor has to save New York City from an alien invasion, with the help of a mysterious superhero- the first time the sci-fi hit has introduced a superhero character!

• Revolting Rhymes (BBC One, Christmas Day)/ We're Going On a Bear Hunt (Channel 4)

Two classic children's stories are getting the animated treatment on TV this Christmas, so make sure young ones get comfortable in front of the small screen.

• Frozen (BBC One)

If that wasn't enough, the multi-Oscar winning animated smash hit Frozen is making its terrestrial TV debut. Parents are sick of it, but children still love it- and we guarantee they'll be tuning in.

• Sherlock (BBC One, New Year's Day)

Once Christmas is over with, it is time to say hello to 2017 and the return of Sherlock. After a divisive third series and a maligned New Year's Day special at the start of this year, there is an enormous pressure for the show to return to form- hopefully, fans won't be left feeling disappointed this time around.

Celebrate Christmas in Newmarket

Nothing brings the family together like going to see a pantomime - and this season NOMADS (Newmarket Operatic, Musical & Dramatic Society) will be putting on what is likely to be their best yet, a production of 'Puss in Boots'.

Running from Friday, 6th January until Saturday, 14th January at the Kings Theatre, Fitzroy Street, this new take on an old classic will be the first time the beloved theatre group take on this story, after a successful production of Sleeping Beauty last year.

As with all NOMADS pantomimes, there will be some familiar faces including Steven Beach, a veteran in the role of the Dame, as well as chief mischief maker Colin Scott, with the cast rounded out by some younger members taking on roles. One thing that is always guaranteed is a fun, lively and value-for-money show. Tickets usually sell out so book now!

Next year's pantomime comes hot on the heels of the groups' successful Christmas concert, where young and adult members performed a range of Carols, as well as well-known Christmas songs and readings. With over 90 members taking part, including Young Nomads and Kings Kidz, the stage was full to the brim with energy and festive fun.

The society is always looking for new members to perform or help backstage and has a number of different sections depending on age.

If you have a child aged 4-9 who is interested in the performing arts, Kings Kidz sessions run every Saturday morning during school time and cost £6 a week/£50 a term.

There is another jam-packed and varied season of productions in 2017, ranging from Peter Pan and Dad's Army during the spring season, until Little Shop of Horrors in November 2017.

For more information and to book tickets, visit nomadskingstheatre.com or call 01638 663337.

With Damon Smith

Moana takes on an epic quest with the help of demi-god Maui

MOANA FROM HEAVEN

THE female empowerment of Frozen gets a colourful Polynesian makeover in the joyful rites-of-passage animation Moana, peppered with infectious songs composed by Lin-Manuel Miranda, Opetia Foa'i and Mark Mancina.

Directors Ron Clements and John Musker, who previously fashioned The Princess and the Frog, The Little Mermaid and Aladdin, rediscover their golden touch on land and at sea, with breathtaking visuals including dazzling water effects.

They also wedge tongues firmly in cheek by poking fun at the lead character's stern assertion that she isn't an archetypal Disney heroine.

"If you wear a dress and have an animal sidekick, you're a princess," quips a demi-god, who joins her on this memorable odyssey into the magical unknown. The key message of Frozen – that girls don't need a handsome prince to achieve their happily ever after – is reaffirmed and the script incorporates the now obligatory smattering of pop culture references, like when the same demi-god scrawls a message with a rooster and deadpans, "When you write with a bird, it's called tweeting!"

The songbook might lack a karaoke earworm akin to Let It Go – parents, you can breathe easy – but the film still boasts some terrific compositions, particularly the solo offerings of Miranda, who won numerous Tony awards for the musical Hamilton.

Moana Waialiki (voiced by Auli'i Cravalho) is the daughter of Chief Tui (Temuera Morrison) and has been groomed since birth to lead her people on the island of Motunui.

However, she feels a strong calling to the sea which angers her father, who believes the tropical paradise can sustain their tribe.

Moana's wise grandmother Tala (Rachel House) fills the girl's head with wild stories about the demi-god Maui, who stole the heart of the island goddess Te Fiti and lost this precious green stone during a battle with ferocious lava demon Te Ka.

The old woman encourages Moana to seek out Maui and restore Te Fiti's missing heart in order to bring prosperity to the island.

With the wind in her sail and a witless rooster called Heihei (Alan Tudyk) by her side, Moana ventures over the reef for the first time in search of Maui (Dwayne Johnson).

Moana is another solid gold hit from Disney's animation studio, marrying self-realisation and broad comedy to dizzying effect.

A trippy interlude with a singing coconut crab (Jemaine Clement) in the underwater Realm of the Monsters is a highlight.

Johnson embraces his role with comic gusto, including a fine rendition of the self-congratulatory anthem You're Welcome, and Cravalho imbues her gung-ho seafarer with tenderness and determination.

Moana is preceded by Leo Matsuda's exquisite animated short Inner Workings, which journeys inside the body of one hapless office worker to explore the literal battle between head and heart for supremacy.

SULLY: MIRACLE ON THE HUDSON (12A)

ON January 15, 2009, US Airways Flight 1549 took off from LaGuardia airport in New York bound for North Carolina with 155 passengers and crew on board.

Three minutes into take-off, a flock of geese impacted the aircraft, causing multiple strikes to both engines.

Captain Chesley Sullenberger, known affectionately as Sully, drew on years of experience to glide the stricken Airbus A320 onto the Hudson River in freezing conditions rather than head back to LaGuardia or another runway.

Aided by First Officer Jeff Skiles, Sully safely landed on water and oversaw the evacuation of everyone on board into ferry boats that raced to the scene, aided by scuba divers from the NYPD's Aviation Unit and Harbor Unit.

Sully: Miracle On The Hudson, centres on the subsequent investigation by the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) into Sully's actions.

Clint Eastwood's exemplary thriller is a masterclass in tension, replaying events from multiple perspectives.

The NTSB investigation led by Charles Porter (Mike

Plane brilliant: Tom Hanks

O'Malley), Elizabeth Davis (Anna Gunn) and Ben Edwards (Jamey Sheridan), forms the crux and the script nimbly condenses the 15-month timeframe to explore the strain on Sully and First Officer Skiles (Aaron Eckhart) as they defend their actions, particularly when tests suggest one of the engines was operational.

Hanks delivers a moving performance, while Eastwood keeps things taut as we buckle our seatbelts and brace for greatness.

THE film opens in the late 1980s at a Las Vegas press conference, where Paz (Miles Teller) loses a bout in front of his father Angelo (Ciaran Hinds) and girlfriend Ashley (Christina Evangelista).

The setback convinces Paz to join forces with a no-nonsense new trainer, Kevin Rooney (Aaron Eckhart). It pays off when he defeats champion Roberto Duran (Edwin Rodriguez), but soon after, Paz is involved in a car accident which leaves him seriously injured. Everyone tells the boxer to give up, but Rooney eventually agrees to help Paz take a calculated risk in the ring.

Bleed For This would be a lightweight contender without Teller's muscular theatrics and well-drilled support from Eckhart.

KELLY FREMON CRAIG writes and directs this deftly sketched portrait of a 17-year-old girl, who feels unloved at home and misunderstood by classmates.

Nadine Byrd (Hailee Steinfeld) has always been jealous of her good-looking and popular older brother, Darian (Blake Jenner). Their mother Mona (Kyra Sedgwick) dotes on him and Nadine's chief protector, her father Tom (Eric Keenleyside), dies from a heart attack during a drive with his daughter.

Her only friend is Krista (Haley Lu Richardson), a fellow outcast who shares her disdain for conformity. Out of the blue, Nadine discovers Krista is dating her brother, driving a wedge between the girls.

Cast adrift from her gal pal, Nadine turns to sardonic teacher Mr Bruner (Woody Harrelson) for advice. The Edge Of Seventeen is a delight, anchored by Steinfeld's touching performance.

At a dance organised by the London Missionary Society, Seretse falls in love with typist Ruth Williams (Rosamund Pike), to the outrage of her bigoted father George (Nicholas Lyndhurst). Paternal rage pales next to the indignation of Alistair Canning (Jack Davenport), the British government's representative in southern Africa, and the young couple face underhanded attempts to pry them apart.

Coach houses: from humble beginnings to charming homes

ORIGINALLY built to house horse-drawn carriages and the related tack, coach houses have, like other redundant traditional farm buildings, been a popular choice among house buyers with their conversion from humble utilitarian buildings into some of the most spectacular homes. Jackson-Stops & Staff is currently marketing two former coach houses in Newmarket, world famous as the headquarters of British horseracing. No 8 St Albans is a charming Victorian example with views over paddocks and is situated in a sought-after residential location close to the centre of Newmarket. The light and spacious accommodation with its period features extends to over 2,000 sq ft and includes vaulted sitting room, triple aspect dining/garden room, kitchen/breakfast room, four bedrooms and two bathrooms. A guide price of £485,000 is being advised. Coach House Mews in Station Road (above), which is on the market with a guide price of £339,000, is a superb period conversion in a secure gated development with walking distance of the High Street. The accommodation includes an excellent kitchen, sitting room, dining room/bedroom three, two first floor double bedrooms and a well-finished family bathroom. There is allocated parking for one car. "Both these former coach houses are not only convenient for all the amenities Newmarket has to offer, but are within commutable distance of Cambridge with its burgeoning hi-tech and biomedical industries, science parks and reputable schools," said Ed Russell of Jackson-Stops & Staff. Contact Jackson-Stops & Staff on (01638) 662231.

No sign of slow-down for the Newmarket property market

IN a traditionally quieter time of year in the run up to Christmas, Cheffins in Newmarket saw a record of over 10 exchanges on property on November 25, with a total sales value in excess of £4,000,000. In the midst of reports of a sluggish housing market throughout the UK in the winter months, Cheffins has bucked the trend in both the Newmarket and Cambridge offices, with record numbers of sales across the board. Cheffins Cambridge reported over 75 sales in 50 days throughout Cambridge city and the surrounding villages. Neil Harris, director, Cheffins Newmarket commented: "Against a backdrop of uncertainty for the housing market throughout the UK, Newmarket and the surrounding area has stood firm with an incredibly healthy market, with activity throughout various price ranges. Newmarket has limited supply of property which is counterbalanced by strong demand from both local and overseas buyers. Benefitting from the Cambridge ripple-effect, the Newmarket property market has gone from strength to strength in recent years, with house prices up by 12 per cent, according to Rightmove. Activity in the market has also been compounded by the reduction in interest rates, which has meant that people are still using property to be their principle source of investment. The growth of employment opportunities in and around Newmarket has also helped the local economy and driven demand for the town itself. "This is an important time of year for many clients as they look to be settled in their new home before Christmas. As one of the longest-established agents in Newmarket and a highly experienced team, we provide the crucial link between all parties. Vendors are sometimes unaware that they may have a defective title to their property or structural issues that only become apparent once the solicitors and surveyors become involved. Further delicate negotiations between the vendor and purchaser are then required to keep the sale on track, which is something that we at Cheffins are well-versed in. As agents, we also keep the line of communication flowing up and down a chain to ensure that everybody is kept informed of progress, eventually leading to a completed sale." XDrive sets you up nicely

WITH the winter months practically here, you might be noticing that the roads are getting a little bit more dicey.

Routes can quickly become wet, slippery and tricky to navigate, especially in rural areas. Two-wheel-drive cars can often struggle here – especially those with the power sent to just the rear wheels – which is why many manufacturers offer four-wheel-drive versions of their most popular models.

One such car maker is BMW, which applies four-wheel-drive technology to many of the cars in its range. It calls this system XDrive.

BMW introduced its first all-wheel-drive model in 1985, with the 325i 'Allrad'. This utilised visco locks, which could create a strong connection between the front and rear wheels. It did this by monitoring which wheel slipped and which gripped, and adjusting the power sent to each one accordingly. This was the first time the German car maker had thought to implement an all-wheel-drive system into a standard road car body, and the idea stuck.

Fast forward to 2016, and BMW is now using an all-wheel-drive system that is at the very cutting edge of technology, giving people a car that is usable in all weathers.

XDrive is a system that sends power to all four wheels constantly. This is split as 40 per cent of the drive going to the front wheels, with the remainder

THE BMW
XDRIVE: AWD system makes light of winter weather

put through the rears. However, things don't stop there. An on-board computer constantly monitors each wheel for levels of grip and can adjust the power being sent to them accordingly.

What does that mean? Well, for example, if you hit a patch of wet leaves on the inside of a left-hand bend, the car's system can send more of the engine's drive to the outside wheels, keeping you stable throughout the corner. It's an ideal solution to winter roads, which can often upset a two-wheel-drive car. And should snow fall, there's a little more traction to be had here, too.

Does this have an effect on economy? Yes, but not as much as you'd think. For instance, a standard 320d will achieve around 65mpg combined. For the XDrive model you'll see around a 10mpg penalty, which isn't bad considering the extra capability it affords you. Throughout the range, you won't see too much of a difference between economy figures – in either petrol or diesel models.

If you're considering the purchase of a four-wheel-drive, but aren't sure about the size increase that comes with an SUV, then a BMW car featuring XDrive technology might be for you. It allows you to keep the usable size and shape of a standard car, while having greater levels of capability on difficult terrain and in different conditions. Make no mistake however, these cars aren't suited to heavy off-roading, having been designed specifically for the road.

Kia cee'd wins 'Best Used Car' award (the warranty helped)

THE Kia cee'd has again beaten tough competition to be announced as Carbuyer's 'Best Used Car' in their annual awards. The cee'd range impressed the judges with its excellent value for money secondhand, practicality, standard levels of equipment, build quality and reliability, all bolstered by the brand's industry leading seven year warranty.

A strong contributing factor to the cee'd range's victory in this competitive category was the warranty extension available on all cee'ds and the entire Kia range. When purchasing a Kia vehicle up to 18 months old from the Kia Approved Used network, the company tops up the warranty period to its original amount of seven years, effectively allowing over eight years of worry-free motoring.

The cee'd range, which won the same used car award in 2015, is a car designed for Europe, built in Europe and only sold in Europe. It is now in its second generation having been introduced in 2006 and includes three family friendly body types, starting from a sleek three-door version scaling up to a larger Sportswagon, set apart by the popular five-door version.

Editor of Carbuyer, Stuart Milne, commented on the win. "The Kia cee'd is a great-value new car, but it's harder to buy a nearly new car of better quality on the used market. It's practical, well built, spacious and efficient and represents superb value second hand. And you'll be safe in the knowledge that you'll still be protected by the balance of Kia's industry-leading seven-year warranty."

SUPERB VALUE: The Kia cee'd range includes options from the family-friendly to the sporty

EMBELLISHED: McLaren 570S range

McLaren adds extra 570S customisation

AN extra personal touch is about to be delivered by McLaren which is adding customised editions to its 570S range.

Five design editions of the model have been drawn up by the British supercar brand's style team to embellish the £143,000 two-seat coupe.

Each edition finish comprises the McLaren designers' choice on exterior paint, wheel style and finish, exhaust style, and caliper colour – along with what the company's existing interior package that most complements the exterior.

The design treatment, which adds £8,500 to the price, is an extension of the By McLaren personalisation theme already available on its models.

Design Edition 1, for example, includes a Vermillion Red body with five-spoke wheels and diamond-cut finish, Stealth exhaust and red brake callipers. The interior includes a By McLaren package of Carbon Black Alcantara and Apex Red Nappa leather seats, a dual colour co-ordinated steering wheel and a McLaren branded leather sill finisher. Deliveries due in 2017.

What we'll do while we sit in a driverless car...

SELF-DRIVING cars may still be a way down the road but many people can already foresee the life-changing difference they will make to how we travel.

In a new Ford-commissioned survey, many Europeans felt time behind the wheel would be better spent catching up with nearest and dearest, gazing out the window, or having a nap. It could even spell the end of the "school-run mum" – as 16 per cent would let kids travel alone.

Ford this week announced European testing of autonomous cars will start in 2017. And of 5,000 adults surveyed, 80 per cent look forward to relaxing and enjoying the scenery, 72 per cent will chat on the phone, 64 per cent would have a bite to eat. Books and movies were close behind.

"People are really beginning to think about exactly what autonomous vehicles could mean to their day-to-day lives," said Thomas Lukaszewicz, manager, Automated Driving, Ford of Europe. "Many of us neglect time for ourselves and for our loved ones in the face of other demands. Self-driving cars will revolutionise the way we live, as well as the way we travel."

On average, European drivers spend up to ten days each year in their cars and a previous survey showed people in major cities find their commute more stressful than their job. This latest poll showed a preference for autonomous vehicles over traditional cars when it comes to going out for drinks and commuting – and nearly half thought driverless cars would be safer.

"We have already announced plans to use an autonomous vehicle for a ride-sharing service in the U.S. in 2021 and it is important that we extend our testing to Europe," added Lukaszewicz. "Rules of the road vary from country to country here, traffic signs and road layouts are different, and drivers are likely to share congested roads with cyclists."

CHARGING AHEAD: The EU

'Thousands' of EV charge points for EU

LONG distance emission-free driving across the Continent has moved a step closer with a collaboration of some of Europe's biggest automotive hitters.

BMW, Ford and the Volkswagen Group have announced a joint venture to install hundreds of fast charging points for electric vehicles across Europe.

The companies involved also include Audi and Porsche and Daimler. They plan to create a network of 400 ultra-fast charging sites powerful enough to significantly reduce current charging times. At the moment, most battery powered electric vehicles have a real-world range of around 100 miles.

The fast chargers will allow EVs to partly replenish their batteries in less than half an hour.

The build-up is planned to start in 2017 with an initial target of 400 sites. By 2020 EV drivers will have access to thousands of high-powered charging points.

Ford's first Active Fiesta has openable panorama roof

FORD this week revealed the next generation Ford Fiesta – the world's most technologically advanced small car – at a special Go Further event in Cologne, Germany.

The new Fiesta is unveiled with the most sophisticated range of driver assistance technologies and connectivity features ever in a volume small car in Europe.

Ford revealed four distinctive production variants of the Fiesta, including the stylish Fiesta Titanium, the Ford Performance-inspired Fiesta ST-Line, the upscale Fiesta Vignale and the Fiesta Active crossover – the first in a new line-up of Active vehicles.

Among a class-leading range of Fiesta driver assistance features – supported by sensor technologies capable of monitoring up to 130 metres ahead – is an enhanced Pedestrian Detection system that for the first time can help prevent collisions at night; and the first Ford Active Park Assist system that can deliver brake interventions to prevent low-speed bumps when parking hands-free.

Fiesta is also the first Ford vehicle to feature a premium B&O PLAY Sound System, and for the first time offers an openable panoramic glass roof. The Fiesta's sophisticated SYNC 3 communications and entertainment system is supported by floating high-definition touchscreens up to 8 inches in size.

Cutting-edge powertrains include Ford's multi-award winning 1.0-litre EcoBoost petrol engine offering up to 140PS, and a 1.5-litre TDCi diesel offering 120PS – the first high-power diesel Fiesta powertrain. Ford anticipates CO2 emissions from 82g/km, supported by an all-new six-speed transmission with innovative friction reduction technologies.

Mountain aims to stay at summit with Fen Tigers

Speedway
DAVID CRANE

sport@cambridge-news.co.uk

CONNOR Mountain is back to lead the line for Mildenhall next season after making rapid strides through the ranks from reserve to No 1 in just three years.

The 19-year-old from King's Lynn, who has won the Fen Tigers supporters' rider of the year trophy back-to-back, took the team's top spot with a string of scintillating performances before breaking his back in a high speed crash at Birmingham in late July.

The multiple L3 vertebra fracture required a three-hour operation and a fortnight's stay in two hospitals after complications.

But Mountain was finally given the go ahead in October to start driving again and rebuild his fitness with physiotherapy, gym work, hydra pool exercises and cycling.

Promoter Kevin Jolly said: "Connor has got what he wants, to be back with us and a Championship place with Ipswich. It's all fallen into place for him.

"He was a heat leader before his time. He's an outstanding rider and goes out and dominates heat one, which is essential to get the team off to a good start and breed confidence in the rest.

"His attitude is spot on and he's ultra-fit now he's lost his puppy fat. It's all in place for him to have a very good career."

Mountain said: "Going into the Championship was my main goal and I am delighted that I am able to ride for two of my local clubs.

"I enjoy being with Mildenhall as it is a real family club with a great group of supporters and I will be looking to hold onto the No 1 spot all season.

"My recovery has been coming on nicely and I'm working as hard as I can now I'm back in the gym."

With four signings so far – Mountain (8.73), Dan Halsey (8.64), Jon Armstrong (7.82) and Jordan Jenkins (3.00) – Mildenhall have 11.81 points left for three riders if the limit remains at 40.

Jolly does not expect to make any further signings before the league's conference on December 13.

Meanwhile, Connor Coles has joined Eastbourne after three years at West Row.

Swimming Newmarket swimmers take top spot

NEWMARKET Swimming Club sent a strong team to Deben in the Suffolk Winter League and they came out on top after a series of impressive performances.

The team finished with 245 points, one more than second placed Deben.

Head coach Annette Skeet said: "Overall we won 24 of the 44 events and all four relays which were amazing."

At the Milton Keynes Open meet Newmarket enjoyed some more impressive results.

Tess Wesley and Henry Newell were in excellent form, and both gained the 400m individual medley regional qualifying time.

There were also new county qualifying times set by Miriam Stratford, Maeve Pooley, Gemma Booth, Ruby Davis and Ella McGonagle.

Athletics Teamwork pays off for the Joggers

NEWMARKET's Joggers men's team won the Male Team Trophy at the Bassingbourn Belle event.

Denys Olefir, Neil Pollard, James Thompson and Mark Hayward completed the course in a combined time of just 4hr 8min 36sec, eight minutes ahead of the second-placed team.

Elsewhere, Lisa Winnington, Jackie Henley, Sophie Adam and Emma Impey took part in the 5K Rudolph Run around Addenbrookes, in support of the hospital.

The Godolphin trainer, who has had a fruitful time in Australia lately, won the award, which is decided by the International

Racing

Racing Bureau, ahead of David O'Meara, Sir Michael Stoute and Roger Varian.

Jim Crowley was named Jockey of the Year. The new champion Flat jockey faced stiff competition in the category as he

Jockeys edge tight game

NEWMARKET Town enjoyed a 2-0 win at Fakenham Town in a Thurlo Nunn League, Premier Division game of few chances.

Luke Seaber-Shinn put the Jockeys in front in the first half and the win was assured when Austen Diaper made it 2-0 with 15 minutes left.

The Jockeys host Wivenhoe on Saturday, while Mildenhall are at home to Stanway.

The following weekend, there will be Victorian themed events taking place at the Clock Tower. On Saturday, December 17th, there will be stalls selling festive food, as well as a Victorian craft stand. Costumed characters will be helping everybody get into the festive spirit, ready to join in the parade later on.

Graham Philpot, manager of the Love Newmarket BID, is responsible for putting this year's events together- and he was enthusiastic about what the town has to offer during the most significant time on the retail calendar.

He said: "Local businesses are a crucial part of our communities, bringing variation and vitality to our town centres and high streets, keeping money circulating in local economies and maintaining a sense of community.

"The Love Newmarket BID initiative was set up to support this vision, with a key role to promote the great array of local independent retail offerings and to encourage residents and nearby visitors to shop local. We are determined to support and help the business community of Newmarket grow, and to achieve this, we will be delivering a number of events and campaigns over the next five years.

"This year, the Christmas events in Newmarket will showcase the best the town has to offer, with a Victorian theme. We have a wide range of excellent attractions on board, meaning families won't have to leave Newmarket to experience the perfect Christmas shopping and entertainment on offer within the region. Plus, with a new bumper Christmas market on the High Street for almost a decade, many shoppers will find the gifts they're looking for right here in Newmarket".

There is fun for all the family at the Clock Tower; children will be able to visit Santa's Grotto and get a photo taken with Santa, before heading on over to the Victorian workshop to make some gifts of their own. Meanwhile, adults can be taken back to yesteryear by tucking in to roasted chestnuts and dunkin' toffee apples. The location will be complete with themed lighting on the Clock Tower, specially designed to make you feel like you really have taken a step back in time to celebrate Christmas.

At 4:30pm on the 17th, there will be a big Winter Wonderland parade heading through the High Street, to the Memorial Gardens, where you will find more exclusive attractions including an ice rink and fairground rides (which will be open from 11am until 8pm) and live music performances kicking off at 5.30pm.

On Sunday, 18th December, the parade will be nativity themed, with a Jesus of Nazareth inspired set, complete with a donkey and a baby Jesus. The parade will begin walking down from The Severalls at 4.30pm and will arrive at the Memorial Gardens, where the Inn and the Manager will be found.

FREE car parking is available after 1pm on Thursdays and families across Newmarket are urged to join in the "fun after one". This will be a Christmas you'll never forget, with first class fun on your doorstep, so head straight down!
